“ I wish I had more opportunities to work with Darrell. He had a smile and laugh that would light up a room. I only had the pleasure of working with Darrell for a short time, but I gained many great memories. There are some memories that stand out more than others. The nights of him rocking out to his music requests, while he would help clean after a school dance. The smile on his face when he was eating his steak dinner at his retirement party. That subtle smirk he had when he was putting on his retirement jacket. That day a man who served Raceland for many years stood before us thankful and humble. He enjoyed the gifts he received even though he deserved more than we could ever give him. Personally I believe the most enjoyable part of his party for him was being surrounded by his people. I'm sure the stories and laughs shared that day are memories that will last a lifetime. I know I'll keep memories of him with me forever.

Right now I'm imagining the time he is already having up there. He has probably already found all his people and made even more friends. I can see it now. He's wearing his jacket and sitting at a table with his people and eating the best steak he ever had. He hasn't stopped talking since he arrived. He has a lot stories to tell. Probably has his bike parked right beside him shined up spotless and playing his favorite music. He won't be riding his bike, he's waiting patiently for the love his life. What a memorable ride that will be.
