“ Never thought I'd see the day where you'd be gone. You were my first husband the first man I ever truly loved and didn't wanna live without. Things happened on both sides and we decided it'd be healthier if we were just friends. And so that was it. From the day we split you were my best friend. If I needed you you were there. I remember the days I'd be having a really rough day and just needed to talk to someone or simply just have someone sit beside me so I wasn't alone in my head and you'd tell me to come over. I'd get there and we'd just sit and watch tv and joke around with each other. We were adult enough to know we couldn't be together but we loved each other to know we couldn't live without one another either. We drifted apart the last few months cause your life was headed in a greater direction than mine and I didn't wanna bring you down with my issues with life. I respected the fact that you had greater plans ahead while I still needed to learn a few things and get a few more ducks in a row. You know how I still feel about you and that's all that matters. You know the bond we had and the bond that will always be in my heart. I tried to see your beautiful face the day they laid you to rest and because your family didn't want me there I wasn't allowed and that's fine. They were never a fan of us anyway. But it will never change the fact that you did marry me and that we share a bond over half of them couldn't even begin to understand. I know that's not how you would have wanted things to go and that's what makes it easier for me to try and forgive them. Me and you know the type of love we shared and will always share whether dead or alive our bond we shared will always be there. No matter who likes it or approved it, it existed and will always exist. I will always love you Steven Michael Porter. You knew that and that's what keeps me going. We might have drifted apart but I know our feelings for each other never changed. I miss you and have for awhile now. Only now I can't randomly call you just to hear your voice like I periodically did over the last 8-9 years. I guess it's time to say my final Goodbye and it's killing me cause I can't do it to your face like I should have been able to but I have to do it through a post on a memorial page. I'll deal with it cause there's nothing I can do to change it but I hope whoever stopped me from being able to say goodbye to his face gets everything they deserve in life. Whether it be good or bad. I hope they get it. And that's that. I love you Steven Michael and I'll see you again someday. Till then you make sure you watch over Bubby. It's gonna be rough for him not having his #1 around. I pray for him everyday along with the rest of the family you left behind. Even though I have my issues I still pray for peace and comfort for all the people hurting over the loss of such a great man. He will forever be missed!

I'm sorry you gotta go through this Conner. I'll be praying for peace and comfort for you and the rest of your family. One thing I know for sure is your daddy loved you. He would have given anything in this world just to see a smile on your face. No matter what it was he would have done it if it made you happy. Always hold on to that and never forget the love your daddy had for you. He'll always be watching over you. Even if he's not here physically he's in your heart Please don't ever forget that.

“ I'll never forget meeting Steven for the 1st time. He was such an amazing person. Steven helped me at my lowest point of my life. He was the only one that didn't give up on me. He literally and figuratively, picked me up off the ground & made me believe I could change my life around. That was almost 5 years ago. He never stopped telling me I was worth it. Steven was a great dad and loved Conner more than anything in this world. He always said how lucky he was that he got to be his dad. & he was proud of everything conner did. As I get older, I've learned you start to lose more and more friends, family & people u know. Some hurt, while others absolutely bring you to your knees. Losing Steven brought me to my knees. This one hurts pretty bad. I'll always cherish the memories I have of us. There's so many. I love you big guy!! You'll be in my heart forever.
